COMMITTEE

ing B.D.F. Depôt, Nana).

To the Inhabitants of the R.D.F. Regimental

District:

THE CITY AND COUNTY OF DUBLIN,
THE COUNTIES OF CARLOW, KILDARE, AND WATERFORD.

The Central Advisory Committee of the Rayal
Dublin Fassiliers is the OFFICIAL and ONLY Commilitee caring for the men of the Regiment who are Presoners of Active Service—at the various fronts.
To the men who are prisoners of war a parcel is sent once a week. These parcels contain food to the value of 7/6, but the cost to the Committee is about 65: as a certain amount of goods are received as presents. In addition to the parcels of food, as good-sized parcel of pipe tobacco and eigrarcles a sent once a month to each prisoner individually.
Understolning is senf regularly twice annually, and outer clothing, overcoats, suits, caps, boots, etc., when applied for. Undersothing is sent regularly twice annually, and outer clothing, overcoats, suits, caps, boots, etc., when applied for.

NOTE—THE PARCELS SENT OUT ARE RECRIVED SAFELY BY THE MEN, WHO SEND CARDS ACKNOWLEDGING THEM.

The various Depots dealing with the care of the prisoners are in constant communication at Limburg (where about 60 per cent. of our prisoners are confined with the Rev. Father Crotty, Chaplain, and at the other camps where our men are confined with the senior N.C.O. imprisoned there.

The few men of the regiment who were prisoners and so fortunate as to be exchanged into Switzer land, without exception declare that if it were not continued to the senior N.C.O. imprisoned there. The few men of the regiment who were prisoners and so fortunate as to be exchanged into Switzer land, without exception declare that if it were not come to the senior of the second that if it were not come to the senior of the second in the search of the MEN OF OUR ERGIMENT.

During the twelve mouths ended 30th September the amount expended on the Regiment was $24,608 4/8, and, as an example of how rapidly the exponses are increasing, it may be stated here that the cost of the last five months of the twelve exceeded the cost of the preceding seven by OVER 100 PER CENT.

THE CENTRAL ADVISORY COMMITTES APPEAL WITH CONFIDENCE to the inhabitants of the Regimental District to come to their assistance.

PPEAD WITH CONFIDENCE to the inhabitants the Regimental District to come to their assistence.

We are faced with another winter campaign, during which the men will have to suffer terrible hardships. As owing to the great increase in the expenses and the greatly increased number of men to be cared for, the Committee will require a substantial and REGULAR financial support, the Committee ask everyloody-every mercantile house, every professional man, every private individual in the Regimental District, to contribute A MONTHLY SUBSCRIPTION FOR THE NEXT SIX MONTHS. There are very few who cannot subscribe SOMTHING. Hissiness Houses are asked the Collections to be made by the Managers of the business undertakings. A Sub-Committee has been formedwith Andrew Jameson, Eag., D.L., as Chairmanto deal with those monthly collections. This Sub-Committee will, if requested to do so. arrange that once a month the subscriptions will be called for, and a receint given for the amount subscribed. It is through the bravery and self-sacrifice of the men on whose behalt hat Ireland is kent free from the horrors of a war waged as the enemy wage it. Our women and children are spared the terrible fates of the women and children are spared the terribous fates of the women and children are spared the terribous fates of the women and children of Belatum. The Advisory Committee has no endowment: it is absolutely dependent for the means of helping these men on the support it receives from the public.

All the workers are voluntary belpers, and all the clous premises used by the Committee are free rent to the Committee, so that the money substitute is spent on the men, and all the goods are the reference of the men on the public.

FROM "THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY.

CHY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.)

TRELAND IN PARLIAMENT.

There are signs, says The Times, that Mr. Redmond will not have a sympathetic House of Commons when he rises this afternoon to move his motion. British opinion is impatient with Ireland for the time, and even life-long Home Rulers are shocked by the terms of Mr. Redmond's motion. The House of Commons, as whole, realises well enough that both the resolution and the speeches which the Nationalist leaders will make in support of it are intended chiefly for Irish consumption. The debate has aroused no excitement in advance, and, if Mr. Redmond insists on going to a division, he will get little support from British members. It is expected that both the Prime Minister and Mr. Duke will take part in the debat. The Lord Lieutenant, who has returned to London, had conferences yesterday with members of the Government and the military authorities upon the question of Irish recruiting. Mr. Duke was also busy. A HOME RULE SETTLE-MENT.

MENT.

In a letter to The Times, Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Hutcheson Poë, writing from Heywood, Queen's County, points out that everaince the foundation of the constitutional movement for Home Rule by Parnell and Davitt, nearly forty years ago, it has been the deliberate and studied aim of the two great Parliamentary parties in the State to treat Ireland as a mere pawn in the political game. It—in place of the direct help and encouragement given by the Liberals, on the one hand, to their Nationalist allies in a one-sided and manifestly inequitable measure of Home Rule, and of the sympathy and support freely tendered by the Conservatives, on the other hand, to their Unionist followers in their attitude of uncompromising opposition to any form of Home Rule—the two great English parties had counselled their respective Irish adherents to adjust S. Rule—the two great English parties had coun-selled their respective Irish adherents to adjust their differences, and to formulate themselves a sound, fair, and practicable scheme on self-government, the problem would have been solved long ere this, and we should not, in the midst of a struggle for our very existence as a nation, be confronted by a situation, serbans the most ted by a situation, perhaps the i > WANTED-PROOF OR DENIAL.

The greaf debate on food prices inaugurated by Mr. G. N. Barnes, on behalf of the Labour Party, turned out, says The Times, to be rather an inconclusive performance. The only definite suggestion he had to make was that a Food definite should be appointed. The demand for Minister should be appointed. The demand for another Minister is apt to be the final resort of another Minister is apt to be the final resort of people who have no practical proposals to make. Mr. Runeiman, whose reply for the Government was by far the best statement that has so far been made, repeatedly declared that there was no ovidence of the alleged malpractices. This is really the important point. It is not prices so much as profits that excite resentment, and what is needed is either proof that such profits are made or a definite denial of the charge. At present the atmosphere is full of vague picton and resentment. We have repeatedly asked for evidence, but none has been produced Now the Food Committee and the Government say there is none, but they do not say so in the strong and convincing terms that are required to allay suspicion. We need a full and reasoned statement on the subject.

The PRIME MINISTER—The answer is in the affirmative.

Mr. REDMOND asked whether it was the intention to appoint some representative Irishmen on the Committee which is about to consider after-the-war educational problems.

The PRIME MINISTER—The Committee consists exclusively of Ministers and ex-Ministers.

Mr. REDMOND asked whether a special Committee was to be appointed to deal with questions affecting spriculture after the war, and, if so, whether representatives of Irish interests would be included on it.

The PRIME MINISTER—Arrangements are being made for the representation of Irish interests on the Committee.

Colonel CRAIG—When the contribution of men to the Army has been taken into consideration by the bon. member it will be time enough to talk about representation on After-the-War Committees.

TRELAND IN PARLIAMENT.

There are signs, says The Times, that Mr. Redmond will not have a sympathetic House of Commons when he rises this afternoon to move his motion. British opinion is impatient with Ireland for the time, and even life-long Home Bulera are shocked by the terms of Mr. Redinsond's motion. The House of Commons, as a whole, realises well enough that both the resolution and the speeches which the Nationalist leaders will make in support of it are intended chiefly for Irish consumption. The debate has aroused no excitement in advance, and, if Mr. Redimond insists on going to a division, he will get little support from British

Lord DERBY (Under Secretary for War), replying, said he would confine himself to the question on the paper, and not go into the warious points the noble lord had raised. He had divided his question into four sub-heads, and he (Lord Derby) was sorry to say he was unable to give him information upon three of rishmen from the provinces of Utser, Munster, citaster, and Connaught who had joined Hid Lajesty's Forces sime April 28th last, he could two the figures of those who had joined since jill 28th up to the 12th of the present month, hey were:—Ulster, $5.05; Munster, 1,749; einster, $0.81; and Connaught 480. The noble ord gave the figure as 200, but he was glad to y that prophesy was wrong. The total from ril 24th to October 12th was 8;605. In regard the deficiencies in number in the various she regiments, he thought the noble lord as have anticipated the answer he would, since it was not considered in the national crest to give him the deficiency in these in any other regiments at the sent time. There were no figures is would show the percentage of English, Scotz, and Welshmen, samen, and Welshmen in the 10th, 16th, and 30th Divisions was very small. RELIGION IN THE ARMY. AN IRISH CHAPLAIN'S

INTERESTING ADDRESS. ,

The Rev. J. Winthrop Crosier, M.A., who has served for seventeen months as chaplain with the 10th (Irish) Bivision in the eastern theatre of war, gave an interesting account of his experiences and the soldier's attitude towards religion, at a meeting in aid of the Army Scripture Readers' Society, which was held yeaterday afternoon in Baggotrath Church Hall, Dublin.

The Rev. Canon Frederick Mervyn, M.A., Incumbent of Raggotrath, who occupied the chair, spoke of Mr. Crosier as the honoured son of a loved and honoured father, and the grandson of an honoured grandfather, whose name he bore—the Rev. John Winthrop Hackett. He touched upon the work of the Army Scripture Readers' Society, which showed men that they could be brave soldiers of the King and, at the same time, brave soldiers of the King and, at the wished that more parishes would follow the example of Baggotrath, which had collected in the previous year the sum of £16 for the Society.

The Rev. Winthrop Crozier said that he be-

STANDING THE TEST

The supreme test of war has sought weak points in the PELTINVAIN WEATHERPROOF Coat and—has not found them. You have only to examine the 'Peltinvain' in order to see why. It is a masterpiece among Weatherproofs, for which we are the Dublin Agents. Distinction, durability, rain resisting power, and perfection of detail—these qualities Peltinvains possess in a very high degree. No fabric can beat 'Peltinvain' Cloth. We are showing a fine selection, both military and civilian.
